

Design considerations when integrating smoke and fire curtains into a building

Fire curtains seal off an area which is on fire, thereby preventing fire from moving from one area to another. Smoke curtains prevent the passage of smoke.

This presentation covers:

- The differences between smoke and fire curtains
- The standards which each type of system has to comply with
- The design aspects to consider when integrating these systems into a building